1.55m one round against clock

Quick Notes

Petronella Andersson is going for three wins in-a-row tonight.

She returns with Odina van Klapscheut, and is one of the most in-form horses in the field.

We expect tonight is a big chance for the home crowd in Scandinavium with Malin Baryard-Johnsson and Petronella both having big chances.

To win it however, they will have to beat some special horses.

Friday night's feature class is a 1.55m class (previously a 1.50m) one round class against the clock. The class has historically averaged a 37% clear rate (often 15+ combinations jumping clear), but with the added height and a smaller field of 32, we expect that number to tighten.

The “magic number” tonight is 12 clears.

In a speed format like this, margins are fine. The smallest winning margin of this class is 0.09 (2014 and 2024).

Petronella Andersson

With her back-to-back winners Odina van Klapscheut & Olympke van't Merelsnest, Petronella has earned 9 total top-level podiums over the last 2 years, including 6 wins.

She is back today with Odina van Klapscheut.

Previous winners of the Friday night feature class

We have two previous winners riding in tonight's class. 2017 winner Kevin Staut is back, this time riding Vida Loca Z.

However, the biggest story tonight is Petronella Andersson's attempt to win this class for the third year in a row.

- With her back-to-back winners Odina van Klapscheut & Olympke van't Merelsnest, Petronella has earned 9 total top-level podiums over the last 2 years, including 6 wins.
- She returns with the 2024 winner Odina van Klapscheut,
- Andersson and Odina lead the field in recent form with a 57% clear rate over the last 12 months. They are in peak condition to defend their territory.

Previous Clear Rates

Historically, the Friday speed class has maintained an average clear rate of 37% from an average class size of 40 combinations. The number of clear rounds has seen some variance over the years, reflecting the changing difficulty and depth of the field:

- The 2015 edition saw the highest volume of faultless rounds, with 21 combinations jumping clear.
- The 2014 and 2023 runnings proved the most challenging, producing only 8 and 9 clear rounds respectively.

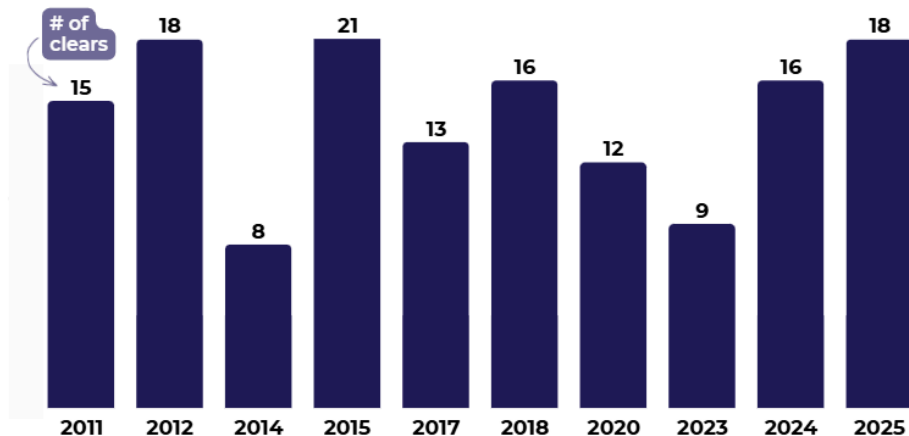

This year presents a slightly different challenge as the class has changed to 1.55m (previously 1.50m). Coupled with a smaller field of 32 entries compared to the historical average of 40, we are expecting a drop in the volume of clear rounds.

The "Magic Number" for tonight is 12.

We are expecting roughly 12 combinations to leave the rails up, meaning that while jumping clear is essential, speed will be the ultimate deciding factor for those aiming for the podium. Since 2011 (the last 10 runnings), the largest winning margin was 2.85 seconds in 2015. The narrowest victory came in 2014 and 2024, when just 0.09 seconds separated first from second.

How many have jumped clear?

Based on previous editions of this class, we are expecting 12 combinations to jump clear but speed is the deciding factor.

Who do we expect will jump clear?

The EquiRatings Prediction Model has analysed today's 1.55m Prize of Hööks, assessing performance at 5* (including championships) 1.55m+ level to identify the combinations statistically most likely to deliver a clear round in the first phase.

The Gothenburg crowd will be most electric for Swedish Olympic gold medalist Malin Baryard-Johnsson with H&M Indiana. At 18 years old, Indiana is one of the most experienced horses in the field. She holds the highest statistical 'Clear Chance' tonight at 58%, having proven her reliability over eight years at the 5* level.

Willem Greve and Grandorado TN N.O.P. (52% clear chance) arrive with momentum, following a 5* 1.50 victory last month in a 14-strong jump-off field in Amsterdam.

Daniel Deusser and Otello De Guldenboom come in with a 45% clear chance. However, with Sunday's World Cup, they may not be fully chasing the win here. They finished second just two weeks ago in Bordeaux's 5* 160 World Cup, underlining their current form.

Previous winners Kevin Staut and Petronella Andersson also feature in the highest clear chances, with 43% and 41% respectively.

Who are the combinations with the highest chance of jumping clear in today's 1.55m class

Rider	Clear Chance
 H&M Indiana Malin Baryard-Johnsson	58%
 Grandorado Tn N.O.P. Willem Greve	52%
 Otello De Guldenboom Daniel Deusser	45%

Who are the ones on form?

This section highlights the combinations in tonight's field that have maintained the strongest 5* 155m+ form over the last 12 months. While the Win Chance model looks at overall probability, this section identifies the horses arriving in Gothenburg with the highest clear-round consistency.

Who are the ones on form?

Which combinations in tonight's field have the strongest CSI5* 1.55 form in the last 12 months?

Horse & Rider	Rounds	Clears	Clear Rate	Avg. Clear %	Elo rating
 Odina Van Klapscheut Petronella Andersson	7	4	57%	25%	719
 Mr. Tac Harrie Smolders	13	6	46%	23%	726
 H&M Indiana Malin Baryard-Johnsson	18	8	44%	28%	748
 Otello De Guldenboom Daniel Deusser	27	12	44%	25%	734
 Equine America Harwich VDL Johan-Sebastian Gulliksen	22	9	41%	28%	726
 Vitiki Yuri Mansur	6	2	33%	26%	719
 Merryweather Vt Leeuwerikenhof Koen Vereecke	19	6	32%	28%	644
 Island V G Geir Gulliksen	7	2	29%	32%	563
 Springfield 21 Amanda Landeblad	14	4	29%	27%	652
 Grandorado Tn N.O.P. Willem Greve	22	6	27%	23%	750

Odina Van Klapscheut and Petronella Andersson enter as the clear statistical favorites based on recent performance, maintaining a 57% clear rate over the last 12 months; over double the field's average clear percentage.

Both Otello De Guldenboom and H&M Indiana have a 44% clear rate. However, Otello has done it over a larger sample size (27 vs 18) but it is Indiana, who carries a higher 748 Elo rating.

Grandorado Tn N.O.P. holds the highest Elo rating in the field (750), suggesting that despite a lower recent clear rate of 27%, they still have the ability to win when they do leave the rails up.
