

SHADOW FLEET

A list of previously unsanctioned crude oil tankers older than 15 years that have exported oil from Russia several times since the start of the war and do not have adequate liability insurance to cover potential damage caused by accidents and oil spills.

GREENPEACE

SHADOW FLEET

192 ageing tankers carry Russian oil around the world, threatening the environment. Of the 192 ships, 171 have passed through the German Baltic Sea and the area of the Kadet Channel in the Mecklenburg Bight at least once in the last two years. All the tankers are old, many have technical defects, have temporarily switched off their automatic identification systems or have transferred their cargo to other tankers at sea - a particularly risky manoeuvre. An accident in the Kadet Channel would put the entire German Baltic coast at risk. All tankers are inadequately insured against the consequences of an oil spill - taxpayers would have to pay to repair any damage.
